Case: Case No.1:24-cv-04457, Northern District of Georgia, Dickerson et al v. Biden et al: https://www.pacermonitor.com/public/case/55307285/Dickerson_et_al_v_Biden_et_al

Case Text: Defendant Jones stands accused of unlawfully dismissing a case filed by a score of law abiding Americans seeking the release of their minor children from unlawful state custody. As a direct result of Defendant's actions—constituting both state and domestic terrorism—these innocent children remain in immediate danger, trapped in exploitative situations under the control of abusive and pedophilic guardians. Throughout Defendant Joe Biden's term, these parents repeatedly pleaded with Defendant Jones for relief, as Biden's administration engaged in mass acts of terrorism against the nation—including the pardoning of high-profile criminals and pedophiles, the disappearance of 300,000 children at the border, and the unlawful state confinement of thousands more American children. Rather than upholding his duty to protect the people, Defendant Jones willfully endangered them by deliberately prolonging proceedings, refusing to act, and thereby enabling these atrocities to continue under the guise of U.S.A. INC. Defendant Jones ultimately terminated the case and granted the Defendants immunity from federal law, shielding them from accountability and obstructing justice in direct violation of President Trump's "Smoke & Mirror" Executive Orders (Restoring Accountability In Federal Workforce – Limits protections for political appointees in federal jobs & Ending the Weaponization of the Federal Government). See Exhibit: Motion to Expedite, https://acrobat.adobe.com/id/urn:aaid:sc:VA6C2:057d75f2-3414-4f41-87cb-73f3ca6cc079

The Defendant must also be held accountable for the disappearance and/or deaths of Bernadine Pruessner and her four children, who were declared dead following a mysterious house fire. WE the PEOPLE reject the official narrative and believe they may have been trafficked or targeted in a premeditated act of foul play linked to the "Cash for Kids" trafficking network operating in Saint Louis. Clear evidence implicates Judge Mary Greaves, along with attorneys Nathan Cohen and Laura H. Stobie—figures with known ties to family court corruption and trafficking in the region. In pursuit of justice,

WE the PEOPLE filed a detailed motion to reopen the investigation into their fate. Yet, without cause, Defendant Jones dismissed this motion, further obstructing accountability and due process. See Exhibit: Motion to Reopen Investigation, https://acrobat.adobe.com/id/urn:aaid:sc:VA6C2:b1e4970d-bc60-4dd5-bbcf-9bb9e5729e98 Furthermore, Defendant Jones is directly responsible for the blatant disregard of WE the PEOPLE's Notice to Enforce President Trump's "Smoke & Mirror" federal and executive mandates, making him liable for obstructing executive authority and undermining the rule of law. See Exhibit: Notice to Enforce, https://acrobat.adobe.com/id/urn:aaid:sc:VA6C2:cfbce788-27f3-4643-aebc-74743b2a1861

THE GROOMING AND TRAFFICKING OF NOVIAN (A CASE STUDY IN COERCION, CONSPIRACY, AND DIGITAL ABUSE OUT OF ATHENS GEORGIA): This claim includes allegations of grooming, trafficking, and psychological exploitation surrounding the minor Novian, a young boy who was placed into the custody and care of a biological male identifying as a transsexual woman, known publicly as "Chanel O'Connor" or "Coco Chanel." The custodial arrangement occurred under highly suspicious circumstances, following the targeted alienation and systemic punishment of Novian's biological mother, Lauren Peek, and extended family for resisting participation in what amounted to a coerced public rebranding campaign centered on Coco Chanel's gender identity and self-promotion. Numerous video and podcast appearances—including one titled "Discussing Black Trans Love w/ Novian & Chanel"—exhibit disturbing hallmarks of pedophilic grooming, including the use of highly inappropriate sexualized terminology such as "gagged," the glorification of secrecy, and repeated attempts to emotionally manipulate the child into accepting a false identity narrative.

Today my 10 year old son approached me about being Transgender (he googled me). It was the most beautiful, scary, emotional, and delicate moment I've ever experienced in my entire life!!!! I've been keeping my gender a secret from him since becoming a full time Mom, and it has been extremely emotional and heavy for me. (I haven't said one word on social media about how difficult my journey has been since becoming a wife and full time mother)
I never want who I am to affect his life in any capacity, and not telling him the truth has always weighed down heavily on me. My son walked up to me after I broke down with tears in his eyes and said " I love you more now than you'll ever know and I will ALWAYS fight to protect you Mom!!
I broke down crying again!! Im speechless and I'm gagged!!

Happy Mother's Day to all my beautiful mothers!!
I am reminded everyday of how much im loved, adored, and appreciated by my incredible husband and son!!
My journey of motherhood hasn't been an easy one- some days I wish I could call my mother or my aunts for simple parenting advice, and then I sorrowly remember the sacrifices of me being transgender ... I digress!!! I'm extremely grateful to those whom I can call, and for all the mother figures I have in my life that have selflessly & endlessly helped me on this beautiful journey!!! I hope you are celebrated today- and every day, as the Queens that you are!!!

In one of these livestreams, Coco Chanel confesses publicly to having lied to Novian about their identity and past throughout his life, only coming clean after the child—curious and intellectually sharp—began asking questions and independently researching the term "transgender." The moment of confession, captured on a Facebook Live and visible to the public, is deeply unsettling: Novian appears visibly uncomfortable and disturbed, yet Coco Chanel boasts that their bond is now "stronger than ever." This narrative is not isolated but is part of a broader pattern of psychological manipulation and systemic grooming. Coco Chanel refers to past connections with powerful networks—including ties to Hollywood, frequent visits to a "Jewish family" in Florida, and involvement in PR and media projects. These self-admitted affiliations, paired with Chanel's frequent travel to Washington, D.C., and public statements about access to six-figure income streams, create a chilling portrait of a trafficker operating under the guise of glamor, performance, and social influence. Novian's mother has repeatedly raised concerns that the use of court-sanctioned custody was weaponized to remove the child from protective family members and place him within a carefully curated online identity platform run by an adult with predatory tendencies. The evidence submitted includes videos, screenshots, and written communications from Coco Chanel O'Connor which—taken in context—amount to an ongoing campaign of coercive grooming, identity distortion, and public commodification of a minor, consistent with the broader "Cash for Kids" trafficking patterns identified in this case. This abuse was not incidental or circumstantial—it was intentional, digitally chronicled, and celebrated online by the perpetrator and their supporters. Supporters who Coco Chanel recieves countless "donations" from sent to her Cash App. Chanel's self-recorded "confession" livestream shows a disturbing lack of remorse and instead exhibits a narcissistic drive to control the narrative, going so far as to mock the child's discomfort and dismiss public outrage. This conduct fits the textbook definition of grooming: manipulating a child's understanding of safety, trust, and identity to serve the psychological, sexual, and social goals of an adult predator. Further investigation is warranted into Chanel O'Connor's digital platforms, media appearances, and social networks, as well as the individuals, judges, attorneys, and child welfare actors who enabled this custodial transfer despite warning signs of exploitation. The systemic failure in this case is emblematic of a deeper crisis in the family court and child protection systems, where identity politics, celebrity access, and financial incentives are weaponized to override the safety and well-being of vulnerable children. Among the most alarming details in the case of minor child Novian is the repeated and routine practice by Coco Chanel O'Connor of requiring the child to sleep in the same bed as her, despite his age and growing discomfort with the arrangement. Multiple eyewitness accounts and digital statements confirm that Chanel not only normalized but insisted on co-sleeping with Novian, framing it as an act of closeness and familial bonding. However, in the broader context of documented deception, coercion, and identity manipulation, this behavior reveals itself to be a textbook method of grooming and boundary erosion, commonly employed by perpetrators of child exploitation. The practice of forced co-sleeping violates fundamental principles of child development, privacy, and bodily autonomy. It creates confused psychological boundaries, particularly when conducted by an adult who has admitted to lying to the child for years about their identity and biological sex. By maintaining constant physical proximity under the guise of comfort or parental affection, the perpetrator is able to exert coercive emotional control, suppress the child's natural instinct to seek independent space, and rewire their understanding of safety and intimacy to align with the perpetrator's agenda. This behavior is not only predatory in nature—it reflects a larger strategy of psychological dominance that facilitates the child's ongoing isolation from protective family members, distorts his perception of normal relationships, and primes him to emotionally depend on the very individual exploiting him. In legal terms, this conduct constitutes emotional grooming and endangerment, and in the context of this broader claim, it further supports allegations of trafficking, identity fraud, and systemic failure by those who enabled or ignored this abuse. Defendant Judge Steve C. Jones, sitting in the Northern District of Georgia, acted in direct obstruction of justice by dismissing this case before it was ever allowed to proceed to trial, thereby denying the Plaintiffs and the public their constitutional right to due process and access to remedy. The premature dismissal—absent evidentiary hearings, discovery, or witness testimony—demonstrates not judicial impartiality but deliberate concealment of the facts and protection of trafficking actors named in this claim. By doing so, Judge Jones aligned himself with the very machinery of systemic abuse this case seeks to expose. His pattern of summary dismissal mirrors the tactics used in other child trafficking and RICO-related complaints across the country, reflecting a broader pattern of judicial collusion known as "Cash for Kids" adjudication, wherein judges and court personnel shield criminal enterprises operating under the guise of family law, foster care, and child welfare. The record is clear: this case contained credible allegations, verified exhibits, and sworn testimony implicating attorneys, guardians ad litem, and public officials in acts of coercion, trafficking, and cover-up. Judge Jones's refusal to allow it to proceed, without so much as a hearing, is not a neutral procedural decision—it is an affirmative act of obstruction that directly serves to protect an enterprise engaged in the systemic abuse and commodification of children.

THE TARGETING AND FALSE IMPRISONMENT OF LAUREN ASHLEY PEEK: RETALIATION THROUGH PROBATION ABUSE AND FABRICATED CHARGES.

Lauren Ashley Peek, the biological mother of minor Novian, has now been subject to unlawful and retaliatory imprisonment by authorities in Athens-Clarke County, Georgia, under clearly fabricated charges designed to destabilize her life and restrict her ability to protect her child. After the filing of this federal case overseen by Defendant Jones, Peek was arrested under false pretenses for alleged shoplifting while she was merely shopping at a local store. This arrest was not only baseless, but part of a larger pattern of targeted harassment and systemic retaliation, carried out in coordination with a probation system designed to force her into failure. Despite the falsified charges, Peek has consistently made every effort to comply with the onerous conditions of her probation. However, her probation officer—acting less as a rehabilitative authority and more as an agent of coercion—imposed deliberately unmanageable stipulations, including excessive fines and mandatory weekly reporting, in what appears to be a coordinated effort to push her into noncompliance and criminalize her circumstances. Lauren Ashley Peek's case reflects a deeper pattern in this district where mothers of trafficked children are targeted and silenced through judicial harassment and probation abuse. Her ongoing imprisonment constitutes a clear violation of her constitutional rights, due process, and protections against excessive punishment, and must be viewed in the broader context of systemic trafficking, retaliation, and the intentional destabilization of protective parents. After her false arrest, on or around June 18, 2025, Peek was then residing with an elderly man who tragically passed away from a medical seizure. She immediately attempted to render first aid, and yet authorities outrageously claimed that his death was somehow her fault and used this tragedy to assert that she violated the terms of her probation. This act of cruel prosecutorial overreach is emblematic of a system that seeks not justice, but total submission and compliance through intimidation and entrapment. Lauren Ashley Peek is currently being falsely imprisoned on four unsubstantiated felony charges stemming from retaliatory and politically motivated actions taken by Athens-Clarke County officials, such as Judge Eric Norris and Judge Jones.

These charges—fabricated from a routine shopping trip and twisted narratives surrounding a natural medical death she attempted to respond to with first aid—are a transparent attempt to criminalize her identity as a protective mother and silence her voice in matters involving child trafficking, systemic corruption, and family court abuse. Despite having made every good faith effort to comply with her probation, the system has weaponized her status to justify pre-trial detention under excessive and punitive terms. Peek is currently being held in the Athens-Clarke County Jail, one of the most dangerous and inhumane correctional facilities in the United States, where detainees are subjected to degrading, cruel, and unconstitutional conditions. As of this filing, she remains confined in sweltering heat exceeding 90 degrees Fahrenheit with no access to air conditioning, in direct violation of the Eighth Amendment's prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment. Detainees in this facility report having no access to clean water, minimal to no food, and no meaningful medical or hygiene care, creating life-threatening conditions that amount to deliberate indifference by jail officials. This facility in Athens- Clark County is not equipped to house vulnerable individuals or pre-trial detainees under such extreme circumstances. The use of this facility to punish and break Ms. Peek—who has not been convicted of any violent crime and is still presumed innocent under law—amounts to state-sanctioned torture and represents a gross miscarriage of justice. Her imprisonment must be seen in context: a mother of a trafficked child, criminalized and disappeared into a system designed not to rehabilitate, but to silence and destroy.

This is not due process. This is persecution. Therefore, WE the PEOPLE give the court 10 days to recuse themselves from this action and release Ms. Peek from illegal custody or be subject to prosecution by all means necessary deemed appropriate by the Constitution.

2. Judge Timothy J. Corrigan

   Case: Dean et al. vs. Chief Justice John Roberts et al. (Case No. 3:25-cv-00363, Middle District of Florida), https://www.pacermonitor.com/public/case/57532375/Dean_et_al_v_Roberts_et_al

Case Text: Senior Judge Timothy J. Corrigan has been deemed a threat and a detriment to society for heartlessly dismissing a case filed by a group of devastated parents seeking signs of life from their kidnapped children. Defendant Trump and the Supreme Court mock the people in a diabolical game of controlled opposition— while judges like Corrigan openly label law-abiding citizens "frivolous and malicious" for demanding recognition of their natural, God-given, parental rights which are highly protected by the First Amendment of the Constitution. Imposters like Judge Corrigan claim WE the PEOPLE intend to "harass, intimidate, and threaten" the very transgressors who trafficked and destroyed our families under the Biden regime, along with the 300,000 missing immigrant children. As of today, Federal Judges across the country operate under the delusion that our God-given rights are privileges handed down by a black robe—available only to those who can pay millions into their private corporations. ("U.S.A. INC." D-U-N-S #s: 161906193 and 096226982 / SUPREME COURT UNITED STATES" D-U-N-S #s: 161906136 and 111477469). For these crimes, Judge Corrigan is now named as a perpetrator in all further legal actions against those obstructing the parental rights of law-abiding citizens. President Trump's mandates—though presented as protective—have proven deceptive and unenforceable in these lawless tribunals, rendering them useless for victims of trafficking. The only executive orders that have seen consistent enforcement are those advancing child trafficking and the ongoing genocide of refugees, asylum seekers, and the indigenous peoples. In contrast, mandates claiming to end government waste and abuse have amounted to little more than smoke and mirrors. The fact that these judicial terrorists perceive efforts to rescue children from abuse as "malicious" or threatening to their way of life is not an insult—it is a badge of honor. WE the PEOPLE declare, on the record, that the First Amendment will decide who is truly "frivolous and malicious." Defendant Corrigan, in retaliation, heartlessly dismissed the case and issued the following statement: "Alexandra Dean has filed numerous frivolous lawsuits in this court and around the country… See, e.g., Dean v. Manhattan Supreme Court, No. 3:25-cv-19 (M.D. Fla. 2025); Dean v. Biden, No. 4:25-cv-1 (E.D. Mo. 2025); Dickerson v. Biden, No. 1:24-cv-4457 (N.D. Ga. 2024)."

I have written to every senator, governor, justice department, Civil Rights offices, Sheriff, Police, and all have ignored me.
